

Securely Communicating Material Information

Sound practices for hedge funds: Establishing transparency

Hedge fund managers need to share material information in a timely and consistent manner with their investors, counterparties and prospects. The challenge is doing this while protecting your confidential information from falling into the hands of unauthorized parties — a breach that can damage a firm's relationship with investors and reputation in the market.

IntraLinks provides hedge funds with a central secure online platform to instantly share material information, such as investor letters, performance data and compliance information. And, our on-demand solution helps you manage and track information, providing an extra measure of control and efficiency over the exchange of critical information.

Ensure Confidentiality and Reduce Risk

With IntraLinks, you can control access to documents and reduce the risk of accidental disclosure to unauthorized individuals. Documents can be locked to prevent printing, saving and forwarding, and can be watermarked for additional security.

Easily Post and Update Documents

You don't need to be an IT ace or ask your IT team for assistance posting and updating information. The IntraLinks platform also includes time-saving tools, such as bulk uploading documents common to multiple funds/exchanges, allowing you to focus on your broader business needs.

Audit Capability

Hedge fund managers can regulate access to specific information and control what can be done with it. Further, IntraLinks audit capability lets you see who accessed which document every step of the way. And the information stays secure, organized and searchable by fund managers.

Customer Support

We provide expert, certified global support, 24/7/365, including password administration for your investors.

“Now with IntraLinks, the firm shares all critical information investors need with complete confidentiality.”
